Team PETRONAS De Rooy IVECO takes on this year's competition with its strongest line-up ever, with team leaders Gerard De Rooy, two-time winner of the Dakar Rally and winner of the Africa Eco Race 2018, and Federico Villagra, who is competing with the team for the first time; Ton van Genugten, winner of four stages and the most successful driver of the Dakar 2018; and experienced driver Maurik van den Heuvel, also new to the team, who finished last year's race in the Top 10.

Lima, 7 January 2019

The 41st running of the world's most extreme rally, the Dakar, will set off from Lima for the first of 10 tough stages that will cover 5,000 km, all on Peruvian soil, following a new loop which starts and finishes in the country's capital, Lima. The race will present a particularly tough challenge for the drivers with around 70% of the route being on sandy soil.

The 2018 Dakar, which had the first five stages in this country, highlighted the extreme difficulty of the Peruvian deserts which put the participants' navigation and driving skills to the test with its big sandy dunes.

Following his victory at the Africa Eco Race 2018, Gerard De Rooy returns to the Dakar rally and is joined for the first time by Federico Villagra to lead the strongest PETRONAS De Rooy IVECO team ever in their quest for the title.

For the ninth consecutive year, IVECO is the official supplier of Team PETRONAS De Rooy IVECO and will provide them with vehicles, engines and spare parts. The team will compete on four IVECO Powerstars featuring IVECO Cursor 13 engines with up to 1,000 hp of power specially engineered by FPT Industrial – CNH Industrial's powertrain brand.
