Michelin assembles COVID-19 support packs for commercial vehicle tyre dealers nationwide

Michelin is supplying independent Michelin Service Pro dealers across the UK and Ireland – recognised for their truck, bus and coach tyre expertise – with COVID-19 safety kits to support the implementation of standardised hygiene practices for employees and customers.

The free packs have begun shipping to dealers as part of a drive by Michelin to supply more than 2,000 tyre dealers across all sectors with enhanced safety materials, as more vehicles return to the road.

Each pack contains comprehensive tips and advice to help dealers operate as safely as possible during the pandemic, including specific guidelines for workplace and vehicle hygiene, documented cleaning schedules, and advice for interacting safely with customers. The packs also include printed customer welcome notices, social distancing posters, social distancing floor stickers, hand wash guidelines, plus various hygiene products including masks and alcohol hand and surface sanitiser.

Chris Smith, Managing Director of Michelin UK, says: “There’s rightly a huge focus on personal safety in the current climate, but we’re reminding all fleets of the need to drive safe, and stay safe. We want operators and their drivers to feel confident they can visit a Michelin Service Pro dealer, or request a mobile call-out, when they need new tyres; it’s important no one neglects vehicle safety.”

Commenting on the content of the packs, he adds: “All of the advice and printed materials are specific to a tyre dealership. We wanted to provide our dealer partners with everything they need to ensure staff feel protected, motivated and able to contribute to creating a safe workplace for themselves and their customers.”

Michelin created special teams across Europe to produce the packs, including staff in Stoke-on-Trent who have been assembling the kits and manufacturing masks locally.

“As well as producing masks for our own use, we’ve been able to donate more than 13,000 to the wider community, including some Stoke-on-Trent care homes and charities,” says Smith. “Our teams have risen to the challenge fantastically. We’re all in this together, and we’re committed to doing everything we can to keep people safe.”
